

This is the second announcement of the European Soil Bureau Network workshop that will be held in Zagreb Croatia in period from 28-30 September. The objective of this workshop is to gather key players in the development and/or implementation of soil protection policy, soil survey, soil monitoring and soil information systems and discuss further strengthening of collaborations between the countries of south-eastern Europe and JRC. Please also consult the official website to receive the complete information about the meeting with a detailed agenda and important documents.

Participants with a grant have accepted a responsibility to produce a 4000-6000 words long chapter, following their participation in the meeting. These will be published jointly as a special EUR report under working title "Status and prospect of soil information in south-eastern Europe: soil databases, projects and applications".
